

why you need

A student traveling in Mexico was struck by a bus and was admitted to a local hospital.

- On Call immediately dispatched a physician to check on her condition.
- Her parents were called and plane tickets were waiting at the airport for them to fly to her side.
- Simultaneously, On Call ordered tests for her and it was determined she was fit to fly. She was med-evaced to San Diego for further treatment and testing.
- She was then released to her parents and flew home.

A student, while studying in Italy, realized that he had forgotten required medication for a debilitating chronic illness that had flared up unexpectedly.

- On Call referred the student to an English-speaking physician from its world-class database, and an appointment was made.
- Prior to the appointment, On Call arranged a telephone consultation between the student's primary physician at home and the physician in Italy.
- After examining the student, the physician prescribed the necessary medication.
- The student was able to resume his studies without losing any classroom time.

While traveling in South America, a teacher became ill with an unknown stomach ailment.

- She telephoned On Call's 24/7 U.S. Licensed Nurse Help Line and described her condition.
- The nurse, supported by On Call's world-class software system, helped identify the condition and recommended an over-the-counter medication to reduce her symptoms.
- The teacher was able to continue on with her tour.
